DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, and 7-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Tsai (US 2004/0139581 A1, filed May 28, 2003).

Tsai shows a positioning base 24 having a spinning portion (center cylinder), a position limiting portion 26, a receiving groove 19, a flexible member 22, and a touching member 18, a rotating base 12 having a rotating portion (center cylinder defining opening 28), a limiting portion 15, and a slipping portion 19, a resistance element 14 between the rotating portion and the spinning portion, the rotating base having an upper shaft base 10 and a lower rotating base 12. Note that any useful digital electronic device may be considered as personal digital assistant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 4, 5, and 7-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hsu (US 6,804,861) in view of Tsai 2004/0139581 A1.

Hsu discloses the invention as claimed including a positioning base 6, a position limiting portion 63, a rotating base (4, 5), and a limiting portion 52. Hsu does not show the positioning base having a groove and a touch member. Tsai in the preferred embodiment (fig 4) teaches forming additional detent (18, 22) in the positioning base for holding the rotating base at a desired position within the rotating range. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the hinge of Hsu with the detent as taught by Tsai, to hold the rotating base at a desired position.

As to claims 10-11, Tsai teaches using the hinge in other electronic devices besides computer. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to extend the use of the hinge of Hsu to cellular telephone or camera as taught by Tsai for holding the display at a desired viewing angle.

5. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hsu '861 and Tsai '581 A1 as applied to claims above, and further in view of Lu et al. (6,742,221).

Hsu does not show a pad between the rotating portion (42) and the upper shaft base (4). Lu et al. '221 teaches a pad (11) disposed between the upper shaft base (10) and the rotating portion (103) to prevent wearing between the rotating surfaces of the positioning base 20 and the rotating base. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the hinge of Hsu with a pad as taught by Lu et al. to prevent wearing between two rotating surfaces.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
